A Q-remembers something that happened to b just in case there is an appropriate causal link between the event Q-remembered and A's memory impression of that event. Unlike remembering, Q-remembering a past experience does not imply the identity of the one having the Q-memory with the one who had the experience.

A shiny new batch of awesome for my "all time favorite" shelf. It has been awhile since I've so thoroughly enjoyed reading a novel that has, at the same time, left me as intellectually awestruck as Joseph Heller's classic sermon on the insanity of war. What a sublime, literary feast. To prepare: 1. Start with a surrealistic, Kafkaesque worldview basted in chaos; 2.

Heller's later novels, including Something Happened (1974), an unrelievedly pessimistic novel, Good as Gold (1979), a satire on life in Washington, D.C., and God Knows (1984), a wry, contemporary-vernacular monologue in the voice of the biblical King David, were less successful. Closing Time, a sequel to Catch-22, appeared in 1994.

Catch-22 - Wikipedia

Catch-22 is a satirical war novel by American author Joseph Heller. He began writing it in 1953; the novel was first published in 1961. Often cited as one of the most significant novels of the twentieth century, it uses a distinctive non-chronological third-person omniscient narration, describing events from the points of view of different characters. The separate storylines are out of sequence
